

*Only passion in you will ignite passion
in others*

March 16

The law of God declares that every seed reproduces after its kind. If we want corn, we must sow corn. If we desire to produce wheat, we must sow wheat. This is not only a natural law but also a spiritual law. God will not be mocked. Whatever a man sows that shall he also reap.

Sharing the truth of God's Word with others will only ignite passion in their life, if you hold a true conviction and are passionate about the truth you share. The things you say will never burn in others unless they first burn in you. Perhaps this is one way we can determine the message God has given us to share with others. What are you passionate about? What are your true convictions? What is the message God has given you that will change lives? Never be afraid to share your convictions with the passion God has given you.

Prayer for Today

Father, I believe and am convinced of the truth of Your Word. I have faith, Sir, and know that my witness will change the lives of those who hear me. I choose, Lord, to release my faith and my conviction with passion and zeal. Amen.
